

Game: Holding me back

15-20 Minutes

Learning outcome (s)

Pupils will be able to:

- Highlight things people should look out for in relation to mental health
- Using Take 5 steps for wellbeing messages which promotes positive mental health
- Asking for help when you are struggling
- Encouraging teamwork and helping a friend

Equipment required:

- 10 cones needed per row
- Put 5 cones in a row 2 metres apart
- 2 pull back harnesses 1 per row
- Print out to use Words on next page and Sellotape them to the underneath of the cones. One quote per cone

Delivery notes:

- Create two lines
- Place 5 cones in a row 2 metres apart per
- Put harness on one person per row
- When the game starts the person with the harness must pick up the 5 cones while the other person tries to hold them back.

Activity

- The Aim of the game is for one person to lift all the cones in their line while the other tries to hold him back.
- This is a time-based game so when the first team lift all the cones record the time and when the game switches the team that does the quickest wins.
- Once you pick up all the cones in your line the person holding your harness will release it.
- If anyone is struggling lifting the cones within your team and they ask out for Help! The people that have finished lifting the cones can then go over and help their teammate by helping pull the harness making it easier for them to lift the cones.
- After the game get everyone around and reflect on the messages underneath the cones highlighting the benefits of Take5
- Now we switch the game by letting the players swap so that the one that was holding the harness is now going to pick the cones up.
- After the second game get the players in a group the team that completes the quickest wins.
- This is a great time to highlight what the difference makes when you ask for Help!
- By using teamwork, you can help a teammate/friend that is struggling.
